Supreme Memory Care

MINIMAL CARE

Residents in the minimum stage of Alzheimer's or dementia are ambulatory but may need the help of one person, due to an unsteady gait. Patients need occasional cueing and prompting, but are continent and fully able to function in the bathroom by themselves.

INTERMEDIATE CARE

At the Intermediate care level, residents have an unsteady gait, are exit seekers and need complete assistance going to the bathroom. They require help every day with eating, getting dressed, and using the toilet. Supreme Memory Care Staff are trained to use lots of cues, prompts and direction to assist with their daily needs.

MAXIMUM CARE

Maximum care is provided to residents who have an unsteady gait and need the assistance of two people. Caregivers will cue, prompt, praise, and support residents in daily routines such as sitting on a chair, going to bed, or using the bathroom. Maximum care residents are sometimes a elopement risk and can be aggressive.

PLACE CARE

Residents at Supreme Memory Care will never have to move because of behavior problems and challenges associated with Alzheimer's or dementia. We are extremely committed to allowing residents to age with dignity in familiar place, surrounded by staff members who truly care for them.
